Here's What's Happening At Austin Straubel International Airport Green Bay, WI

TSA Pre✓[®]

There is a new Green Bay location where Northeast Wisconsin travelers can enroll in the Transportation Security Administration's TSA Pre✓[®] program.

Summer Traveling Tips

Planning a summer get-away? Now is the time to book your flights before they fill up. "Summer is a peak travel season and the airlines carefully plan their routes to maximize capacity," explained Airport Director Tom Miller, "Three months out is about as

TSA Pre✓® is an expedited screening program that allows enrolled flyers to:

- leave on their shoes, light outerwear and belt
- keep their laptop in its case
- keep 3-1-1 compliant liquids/gels in a carry-on bag

The screening is offered at Green Bay's Austin Straubel International Airport (GRB) during peak travel hours and is offered throughout the travel day at most major airports. The new TSA Pre✓® enrollment center, IdentityGO has opened at the H&R Block office at 601 S. Military Ave. in Green Bay.

late as you should get with your booking.” Once you've booked your flight, keep in mind these tips for making your air travel as care-free as possible:

- know the rules for checked and carry-on luggage
- designate an outside pocket of a carry-on for your itinerary and boarding passes
- put an identifying tag on any luggage, strollers, etc.
- don't forget the chargers.
- check in for your flight from home
- research airport amenities in advance

GRB's Name Change

First and foremost, you should know that Austin Straubel is, and always will be, a part of the airport's name. It is important that we continue to honor the memory of this local WWII hero.

What is in the process of changing is adding "Green Bay" to the name. Green Bay makes the airport immediately identifiable to those outside the area; those looking to fly into Northeast Wisconsin. When someone is doing an online search for an airport, they are most likely to search for "Green Bay Airport." When Green Bay Austin Straubel International comes up, they'll know they found the right place. While the Brown County Board approved the change a few months back, it still must be approved by the FAA. That shouldn't be a problem, but it has to go through a process with the FAA and that may take a few more months.

We anticipate by this fall, you'll start to see the new name in various places. Signage will be changed out as budgeting allows. So feel free to refer to us as Green Bay Austin Straubel International!

The image shows three luggage tags hanging from a dark surface. The first tag is green and labeled 'NEW', with flight number 'P- 199707' and a sorting symbol 'A'. The second tag is blue and labeled 'BIZ', with flight number 'P- 070826' and a sorting symbol 'S'. The third tag is purple and labeled 'PRK', with flight number 'P- 112980' and a sorting symbol 'A'. To the right of the tags is a sign that reads 'Land Your Business at Austin Straubel Commerce District' and provides details about prime development property with convenient access to I-43, US 41, Hwy 172, the Port of Green Bay, and Northeast Wisconsin's largest airport - Austin Straubel International Airport.

GRB: A Great Place for Your Business

A new business park is available for development at GRB. Austin Straubel Commerce District offers prime retail and office property development property with convenient access to I-43, I-41, Hwy 172, the Port of Green Bay, and Northeast Wisconsin's largest airport.

"There are eight parcels of land along Hwy. 172 and Packerland Drive that aren't needed for airport operations,” explained Brown County Executive Troy Streckenbach. “These parcels offer prime locations for many types of business looking to locate or expand in Brown County.” Airport Director Tom Miller added, “We have parcels that can accommodate a wide range of uses, in sizes from 3 to 23 acres. The location is perfect for retail operations or office buildings, with easy access to the highway system.”
